PRINCETON PRESBYTERY.

Synopsis of the Session Held at Flat Rock March 31.

Princeton Presbytery met with Flat Rock Congregation March 31, 1891. The opening sermon was preached by Rev S. M. Griffin of Davis Presbytery. There was a very fair delegation. The work of the Presbytery was full of interest. During the session special sermons were preached on "Systematic Giving" and the "Education of the Ministry." A Sunday School Institute was held, another special service for the discussion of the distinctive doctrines of our church. The next meeting of this Presbytery will be held with Bella Mines Congregation. Similar discussions to those above mentioned were provided for the next meeting of Presbytery.

The reports of the committees showed a commendable progress in supporting the enterprise of our Church. Our contribution to Ministerial Relief exceed those of last year; while the contributions for Missions were increased nearly one-third. Yet the reports showed that some of the congregations had done nothing toward supporting these enterprises.

The reports of the Ministers and Elders showed that only two Ministers, M. E. Chappell and B. T. Watson were devoting their entire time to the ministry; and that only two congregations, Bethlehem and Fredonia, had met all their obligations to their pastor. The committee on State of Religion reported a number of good meetings with many professions and accessions. The committee on Theological Endowment reported commendable progress in that work. Rev B. T. Watson and Elder W. P. Black were elected Commissioners to the General Assembly. The Presbytery adopted a course of study for the candidates.

THE TOWN ELECTION.

Licenses Defeated; and a Mixed Board Elected.

Saturday was the regular election in Marion. A board of Trustees, Marshall and Assessor were elected, and a poll was made to ascertain the sentiment of the voters on the question of licensing saloons. It was the most exciting election Marion ever held. The board of Trustees consists of five members, and nine names were placed upon the poll-book to be voted, some of these were for licenses and some opposed. All were Democrats but two, and while the liquor issue was the most discussed, the voting showed that there was an undercurrent of old fashion politics. The Democrats generally voted for Democrats and Republicans voted for the two Republicans on the polls. There was a crowd around the polls all day, and the recording of every vote was watched with a keen interest. The vote for Trustees was as follows:

J. P. Pierce	80
W. H. Crow	55
Dr. J. H. Clark	60
J. J. Bennett	56
J. A. Hurley	66
A. J. Duval	38
A. J. Piekens	53
H. T. Flannery	53

J. H. Morse's name was on the book until 9 o'clock, when it was discovered that he had not lived in Marion long enough to be eligible to the office of Trustee. Up the time of his withdrawal he had received 19 of the 20 votes cast.

For Marshall the vote was,

K. E. Cannon	32
A. Wilborn	65

For Assessor, the only two names that appeared on the book were H. Keltinsky and S. Hodge, the latter was not put on until late in the day, the vote was

H. Keltinsky	67
S. Hodge	28

On the licenses question the vote was

For licenses	37
Against licenses	46

The total vote polled was 103, which shows that 19 persons did not vote on the licenses question.

There are about 130 voters in the town.

They will Remonstrate.

T. N. Wetford, proprietor of the Bill City house, at Ford's Ferry, has put up the customary notice to the effect that he will apply, next Monday, to the county court for license to sell liquor by the drink. Some of the citizens of that vicinity were in Marion Monday, and had petitions prepared to be circulated among the citizens of that section of the county, praying the county court not to grant license. The signers of the petition will be confined to those living within a radius of 12 miles east and west of Ford's Ferry, and three miles south. A big effort will be made to prevent the sale of liquor at Ford's Ferry.

RED RIOT.

Labor Troubles Culminate in Blood Street and Death.

Mt. Pleasant, Pa., April 2.

Ominous signs of the gathering of a storm in the coke region have been observed by experienced strikers here for some time, and at 2 o'clock this morning they focused and burst with sudden fury at the Morewood plant, which has proved such a bone of contention between the strikers and their employers. The fight was brief and deadly. Two rounds of cartridges were fired by a band of sixty-five guards, and seven of the mob of strikers fell dead, while at least forty others were wounded, how badly can not be definitely stated, as they were taken away by their companions.

The attack on the Morewood plant was well planned and conceived, and headed by men determined evidently to intimidate the men working there once for all. At 12 o'clock, small bodies of strikers began to gather on the hills. As usual during a raid, they were armed with revolvers, stones, iron bars and every conceivable weapon obtainable. Healed by their drum corps, they marched first to the Standard works, where they deliberately destroyed both telephone and telegraph wires, so that word of their coming could not be sent to Morewood. While at the Standard works, incidentally, they destroyed anything movable they might find. The strikers created all the noise possible from the surrounding hills, intending to surprise those of their fellow strikers in the vicinity or their intentions of raid.

Their march to the Standard works had been but a hasty skelter affair, each man of the 500 in line merely making all the noise possible, in order to increase their number for their more desperate raid on the Morewood, where it was known sixty-five guards had been placed, with order to fire if necessary. Some time after 2 o'clock this morning, the guards at the Morewood heard from the Standard that a raid was imminent. The few frightened men left at the Standard had plucked up courage enough to repair the wires, and the warning reached the Morewood plant some ten minutes.

As the noisy band of strikers, now numbering fully 1,200 men, approached that plant, their outermost ranks, their drum corps was silenced, and the ugly crowd gathered in a bunch on the black hills overlooking the plant for a moment's parley before attacking a plant they knew to be well guarded by determined men. There was a hesitancy, but the fact that they were twenty to one strongly encouraged the strikers, and they quickly separated, one large detachment advancing on the works by the main road, while the others scattered over the browns of the hill, and shortly after 3 o'clock, at a given signal, all moved down on the works. The night was of inky blackness; but the guards were apprised of the movements of the attacking party by confused mutterings in a foreign tongue, or subdued orders from the leaders under the orders of Capt. Lear, the sixty-five guards stood quietly in line before the works, their Winchester's peacefully "at rest." Suddenly a break was made by the advancing mob toward the fences of the company. A stern order to halt was given, but the only attention it received was the firing of three shots by members of the mob, which whistled warningly close to the heads of the impassive guards, each one of whom was well drilled and was simply there to obey orders.

Again was the command given, and again came the mocking answer, and the order to fire was given by Capt. Lear. The volleys from the Winchester's were well directed, and but few rounds were necessary to drive the frightened rioters back to the hills, where hundreds of their fellow strikers had gathered in anticipation of assisting in the raid, but not in a bottle with such a determined body of guards.

The firing on both sides continued hardly three minutes. The volleys from the guards had terrible effect on the compact mass of strikers, while the latter made an attempt to return the fire with what few weapons they possessed, but without effect. The dead were left lying in the road, while the wounded, estimated at between forty and fifty, were either assisted or bodily carried away into the hills by their fellows.

All day the entire coke region has presented scenes of the wildest excitement. The foreign element, especially, has been driven frantic by the fearful result to the anticipated victorious raid on the Frick works at Morewood. Always turbulent, and ready for desperate measures, they are not one whit cowed by the death of several of their number, while they have sedulously concealed in their homes these of their number who were wounded, many, no doubt, unto death. Anathemas loud and deep have been heard on every side all day. Word has been sent by secret means all over the region that their comrades were fired upon and mowed down by the guards without provocation and deadly vengeance on each and every member of the band of sixty-five men has been sworn to. This all comes from the foreign element.

WILL BE REMOVED.

Ohio Valley Auditor's Office to be Changed.

It has been rumored about the city for several days past that the auditors department of the Ohio Valley road would be removed to Louisville immediately. Of course all the officials located in the office strenuously deny any knowledge whatever of such an order, but from facts learned yesterday it is very evident that the Newport News and Mississippi Valley road, which recently came into control of the Ohio Valley, has already given out the order to the auditor of the O. V. to prepare for a removal to Louisville before the first of May. It was ascertained yesterday that the agents both in this city and all along the road, have been ordered to make inventories of all freight and tickets now on hand, and report to auditor immediately. Considering this fact, and also that the N. & M. V. road favors moving the office to Louisville, it looks very much as if such a move will be made. It is hoped that this is not true, for the gentlemanly officials in charge of that department here will be missed.

Literary Note.

"A Son of Old Harry," is the unique title of a story by Judge Tourgee, which is soon to appear in the New York Ledger. It is one of those surprises which this indefatigable writer is always springing on the literary world, to the confusion of the critics, who have no sooner got him fitted to a niche than he jumps down and clambers into another. Utterly defunct of franchised rules, by which under the claim of art they attempt to chain fiction to insignificance and vapidity, he chooses his characters wherever he sees fit, and portrays them with a vivid lifelikeness, which compels recognition and stamps each one indelibly upon the readers memory. "A Son of Old Harry" is emphatically a horse story concerned in part with the evolution of the trotter—and is most appropriately published by the sons of Robert Bonner, the veteran patron of the trotter, whose stable is the haven to which the finest of this unique type is sure to tend.

Break Jail.

Tuesday night just before 1 o'clock M. T. Trent, Will McGrogan and Charles Dixon escaped from the Caldwell county jail and are now breathing the open air of freedom, and, for aught the authorities know, are far away. The escape was made from the dungeon cell in which all three were lodged and was effected by cutting a hole through the east wall near the floor, affording direct communication with the free air in the back yard of the jail. It was very easy to cut through the wall, as the iron lining of the cell had rusted away at this particular point from the damp and fith of the water closet. The logs of the wall are rotten and the bricks of the thin wall outside of the wood wall were removed by parties from the outside who were assisting the prisoners to escape; tools were banded through a hole used as an exit for the prisoners' fith, when looked in the dungeon. The only tools used appear to have been a mallet and chisel, and a key hole saw. With these simple tools a hole was soon made sufficiently large to allow them to crawl out.—Frisco Banner.

A Letter.

Irma, Ky., April 1st.

Miss Simple Susie: Dear Child: Though you are a sweet child to me you must not take issue with you in some things. You seem to have grown very wise since you took the name of your choice and have shown much learning by telling those people why you call them Campbellites and by informing them that a Campbell was the first man who preached the doctrine which they advocate. Now dearest "come let us reason together" concerning the claims of those people. Let us first consider the name which they prefer to wear. You nor I claim to be a Campbellite. They desire us to call them Christians nothing more nor less. Formerly the good Lord's people were called Sons of God, Children, Followers.

A Royal Priesthood, a Chosen Generation, Sheep, Saints, Disciples, Sect everywhere spoken against, Etc. But after speaking at some length concerning the new dispensation in which the Gentiles should be brought into the favor of God, Isa. says "and the Gentiles see thy righteousness and all kings thy glory and thou shalt be called by a new name which the mouth of the Lord shall name." Isa. 62:2.

Now dearest Susie if this new name is Campbellite those good people will surely not remonstrate with us for calling them by their new name which the Lord gave.

But let us hear from Isa. again. "I will bring my seed from the east and gather three from the west and I will say to the north give up and to the south keep not back bringing my sons from far and my daughters from the ends of the earth even every one that is called by my name Isa. 43:5, 6, 7. It appears that Isa. foretold that they should be called by a new name and that the mouth of the Lord should give this new name also that it should be the Lord's name and that the Gentiles should see the righteousness of Jerusalem and all kings her glory before this new name was to be given.

In order to see that we the Gentiles may have an interest in this new name let us investigate further. Amos. 9:11, 12. "In that day I will raise up the tabernacle of David that is fallen and close up the breaches thereof and I will build it as in days of old that may possess the remnant of Edom and all the heathens which are called by my name."

Evidently the heathens spoken of by Amos are the same people of whom Peter spoke when he said "men and brethren you know that a good while ago God made choice among us that the Gentiles by my mouth should hear the gospel and believe." Acts. 15:7.

Again we bring in the 14 v of the same ch, that God at the first visited the Gentiles to take out of them a people for his name thus we see that his name was to be for the Gentiles. In the 15 v of the same chapter James says. "And to this agree the words of the prophet" as it is written and after this I will return and build again the tabernacle of David which is fallen down and I will build it up that the residue of men may seek after the Lord and all the Gentiles upon whom my name is called sayeth the Lord who doeth these things." Acts. 15:16, 17. Note that the same people whom Amos called heathens are called Gentiles by James in the 15 chapter of Acts and he said it agreed with the words of the prophet.

Isa. 56:5, "I will give them an everlasting name which shall never be cut off." Zec. 14:9, "And the Lord shall be king over all the earth; in that day shall there be one Lord and his name one."

After that good time came of which the prophet spoke we hear James say: "Do they not blaspheme that worthy name by which ye are called?" James 2:7.

Acts 4:11. "For there is none other name under heaven given among men by which we must be saved." Now my dear let us see whether those people have any authority for their name.

1. The Lord's people were to be called by a new name.

2. It was to be a name which the Lord should give.

3. The Gentiles were to see the righteousness of Jerusalem and all kings her glory before this new name should be given.

4. The Lord's people were to be called by his name.

5. He was to give his people an everlasting name.

6. After the Lord came his people were called by a worthy name.

7. There was to be one Lord and his name one.

8. It being his name it is the only name in which there is salvation. Now my dear we have found what kind of a name this new name was to be let us see what it is.

You remember that Christ told Peter that he would give him the keys of the kingdom of heaven and that on the day of Pentecost he opened the door of the kingdom to the Jews and that God showed him by a vision that he must preach to the Gentiles also and that he used the other key in opening the door to the Gentiles at the house of Cornelius as recorded in the 10th chapter of Acts. Now remember that the Gentiles were to see the righteousness of Jerusalem and all kings her glory before his people were to take their new name also that this prophecy was fulfilled as recorded in the 10th chapter of Acts. Now turn to the 11:26 of Acts and we find that after Peter had rehearsed the matter concerning the Gentiles being brought into the favor of God and the middle wall of partition being broken down. Luke says; "And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch." Gal 3:25, "For as many of us as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ."

Those people whom you and I call Campbellites sometimes claim that as they were baptized into Christ they should wear his name and not Campbell's. They say if they had been baptized into Paul, Apollus, Peter, Campbell, or any other man they would wear his name but as they are baptized into Christ and are married to him they prefer to wear his name.

1 Pet. 4:16. "Yet if any man suffer as a Christian let him not be ashamed."

Those people claim that they are nowhere intreated to suffer without shame as a Campbellite but that they are not ashamed to suffer as Christians for him who died for them. Agrippa said to Paul "Paul thou almost persuadest me to be a Christian." Paul never called on me to be Campbellite but Christians. Now my dear perhaps your cheery face will blush when I tell you that I have looked through the spectacle of prophecy down to the new dispensation and can find no reason why we should not let those people have the name they so much love as it is the only name that has Christ in it. But perhaps you will ask me what objection they have to the name Campbellite. Well they say that a Campbell was unknown as a public man for 1300 years after Christ and that the Bible says nothing about Campbell.

But you say Campbell was the first man to preach the doctrine which they advocate.

Let us not leave our subject we will discuss that hereafter.

Perhaps you will say "Well Grandma why can't they take your name and be called Methodist. Well they say this is an unknown until 1729 hence they object on the same reason as stated above.

But perhaps you will say "Why can't they take the name Baptist. I am sure it is in the Bible. Yes they admit that it is in the Bible but they say it only means John the Baptist so called because he baptized people."

They say he never had a church and that he died before Christ set up his consequently he was not in the church which Christ said he would build. They also say that they know of no church known as Baptist church until 1611 A. D. and they do not prefer to wear that name.

Perhaps you will say "Is not every one who believes in baptism a Baptist?"

They say no child you should believe in Christ and submit to the ordinance of baptism because he commands it.

In brief refuse all other human names on similar reasons and if we take the Bible for guide and counselor I can't see that they are far wrong. Now my dear my letter has grown quite lengthy but I hope not too onerous. I hope you will not think me pugilistic but consider this new name in the light of revelation. Forgive dear girl and neglect not to write to your loving Grandma.

The mother, sitting beside and rocking the cradle, often singing her lullaby, may be thus shaping, as it were, the destinies of nations. But diseases consequent on motherhood, have borne her down, and eaped her life, how mournful will be her song. To cheer the mother, brighten her life, and brighten her song, Dr. Pierce's of Buffalo, N. What he asks is, that the ladies shall give it a fair trial, and satisfaction is assured. Money refunded, if it does not give satisfaction.

DR. J. D. CLARDY

Makes a Sensible Speech and Pleases His Audience.

According to announcement, Dr. J. D. Clardy, the farmer candidate for Governor, addressed the people at the court house Tuesday morning. It is to be regretted that his audience was not larger, but the time of day, together with the busy season kept a great many farmers away who would have enjoyed his speech and who would have been benefitted by hearing it. The doctor talks fluently, pleasantly and plainly. He has points to discuss and discusses them intelligently. He said that he was a farmer, but owed no apology for that; the farmer had as many rights as other men, and no more. He said that for fifteen years he has been making public speeches in behalf of farmers and farming, but never before as a candidate; men of other professions than that of the farmer had filled a large per cent of our offices because their constant study perhaps better capacitated them for the important offices, and because their ambition led them in that direction; while the farmers' ambition led him in other directions, and he had taken too little interest in matters political. He said from a cursory view of our great country, it appears that all should be happy and contented, and that there should be no want anywhere, but that this state of affairs did not exist. Something was wrong; there was dissatisfaction as evidenced by the various organizations of laborers in manufacturing centers, and farmers in the agricultural districts. While the country was growing rich, the toilers were not sharing proportionately in that wealth; that thirty thousand people owned half of the wealth of the country. There are reasons for this unjust arrangement of affairs. The reasons are:

1st. Tariff taxation.

2nd. Demonitization of silver.

3rd. Contraction of the currency.

4th. The grasping of the vast corporations.

Each of these were in turn discussed by the speaker. He is for a revenue tariff, free coinage of silver, a $50 per capita currency, laws that as binding and exacting on railroads and other corporations as on individuals. On the third party movement the speaker was as explicit and as firm as a man could be. He said that he had studied the question thoroughly as a farmer and an alliance man, and his conclusions were arrived at after mature deliberations. He said there is no need and no demand for a third party. Three-fourths of the Democratic and Republican parties are the farmers and laborers. Why leave a party that is already organized and equipped for a new one, making enemies of those who are now friends and ready to help. He said that he was a Democrat, and that party had not been in power one hour during the last thirty years, and could be charged with none of the evils that have grown upon the country; it had always stood and stands to-day for what the farmers want and demand; stand by it, take charge of it, control it. "You," the speaker said, addressing the farmers, "compose four-fifths of that party, attend its conventions, run its primaries, and nominate the men you want. The doctrines of that party are just what you are asking for. Within its ranks you will find thousands of men who are not farmers, but who are with you and will help you, while if you leave it for a third party you lose them."

The rank and file of the Republican party was not to blame for the legislation that has injured the farmers, but the men they have put in office are responsible for it, and chargeable with it.

The speaker said that he did not like the plan of holding mass meetings at the court houses to send delegates to the State Convention, but if the county committees did not order precinct meetings, every farmer should attend those mass meetings, and the farmers should come in such masses as to show that they could accept the situation and control affairs. "Turn out," the speaker said, "rain or shine, a good day to work or a bad day to work, and instruct your delegates. Don't leave the matter with those who live convention, and then abuse them for what they do, but go out and take a hand in an affair that is your own, or forever hereafter held your own. It is something that must be attended to. If you fail, or are careless, don't abuse the town people for doing what they think is right. It is a mistaken idea to think that the town people are against you; they are with you."

The speaker then enumerated some of the duties of a Governor, and said that he would appreciate the suffrage of the people, and if elected would to the extent of his ability discharge the duties.

We have received several letters in answer to our inquiry concerning the public roads. A number of persons to whom they were addressed have so far failed to answer. We hope they will reply at once, as we desire to publish them next week.

Notwithstanding the bad roads, and rains, our mail agents are on time.

Our Public roads are in a deplorable condition, (I mean in Crittenden county), and as we live on the line with Caldwell county we want to say, the roads in Caldwell county are too bad to talk about, notwithstanding the tax. OUR SCHOOLS.

The Superintendent Reviews The Situation.

There has been a school kept in each of the sixty-two white and nine colored districts in the county during the present school year. The people are becoming more interested in the necessity of immediate action in the cause of common schools than they have been heretofore. They are realizing the fact, that the time has come, when old fogies must give way to science and intelligence. They are asking for better school houses, and better teachers, which we hope they may have in the near future. I found on visiting the schools, that the teachers were doing the best they could, as a rule, under the circumstances, and a great deal of hard work for a very small salary. They are a very moral, clever, and energetic class of teachers.

The amount paid out of the State school fund, in this county, to teachers during the present school year is $11,775.84. This is a fund paid by the State for the exclusive benefit of teachers, and therefore cannot be used for any other purpose. I find that low districts ever supplementing this fund in order to get a better teacher, and if they should ask for a tax for that purpose, there is a certain class of voters who have from three to five children, entitled to the benefit of the common schools always ready to vote against any tax that is for the benefit of schools. They, strange to say, hardly ever pay any ad valorem taxes. This is ignorance in full bloom and a disgrace to such parents.

There are some very good school houses in the county, and quite a number that are not suitable for a good healthy school. Good houses are essential to good schools, and as the citizens who are interested in this matter, are asking for better houses, I have determined that they shall have them.

Eight houses have already been condemned and there are others waiting to be. Now, if every lover of the cause of the common schools will do his duty, and be willing to concede to others their rights, there will be no trouble about locating new school houses. And if they will always elect the best men in the district for trustees, they can do much to advance the cause of education in their community.

I would suggest to those who are desirous to see their districts blessed with good schools and intelligent children never vote for that class of men for trustees, who are continually demanding the employment of cheap teachers. I mean a teacher who is over ready to take the school at any price. Whenever you get a teacher of this class, you are likely to have a cheap school.

I am sorry that some teachers will so far forget themselves, as to make contracts with trustees, to teach their school for the public money, and agree to furnish certain articles for the school, such as brooms, crayons, and buckets. As has been stated the common school fund is for the payment of teachers and used otherwise is a violation of law.

There is another drawback to schools, that is the habit of some trustees always wanting to employ a teacher because he is a cousin of some party connected with the school. Get a good teacher even if he is not a relative of Sam Jones. There has been too much of this relative business for the good of our schools.

Some teachers have requested me to give my opinion as to each school and the teachers' method of instruction and government of his school. This might be too personal and injurious, rather than beneficial to the schools. I had rather have a kind word for any teacher, than anything that would wound the feelings of any teacher. We have some most excellent teachers in the county, and some who can greatly improve in teaching.

I will call the attention of the teachers to a few things, which I consider errors in school government.

Punctuality, I think, is an element without which a school cannot be successful. It is often the key that unlocks the store house of knowledge, that which unfolds the mysterious and illumines the intellectual life of many a man. Always teach the child to be true to time and friends, and it is likely to make life a success.

The want of punctuality in the school will cause it to be a failure. Whispering, moving over the room after water and other things during school hours, snapping of the fingers at the teacher to attract his attention, are faults permitted by some teachers.

Allowing the scholars to recite as if they were just ready to retire at night for a refreshing sleep, and as though they cared but little about their studies, are other mistakes.

There are only a few of the many mistakes permitted by teachers, but each one knows whether these objections were allowed in his schools.

Of course the teacher must thoroughly understand the branches which he is expected to teach, or his school will be a failure.

In conclusion, I wish to say, that whatever I do concerning school matters shall be for the good and benefit of the people. I have the new school law for trustees. Call and get it. Trustees should be careful in making contracts with agents.

Respectfully,
W. J. Dugan.

FARM AND GARDEN.

SUBJECTS OF INTEREST AMERICAN AGRICULTURISTS.

The Knee Spring Horse—Some of the causes of this disease, with directions for its prevention and cure—How an Affected Animal Suffers.

The exact cause of this disease has never been clearly made out; it generally appears as if the ligaments and bands of the knee had become strained and enlarged, in the front and back and sides of the knee, when the bones of the knee joint being no longer properly retained in their places, become bulged or sprung forward. Young horses subject to an excess of hard work, before they are matured are liable to injure their knees in this manner and care should be taken not to overtax them under the age of seven years. Horses employed in constant "up hill" work or suffered to stand in stables where the fall is considerable and the floor hard, exerting the muscles of the legs and keeping the ligaments in a tense state, would be exposed to a bowing out of the knees in consequence of the ligaments and tendons becoming weakened.

When the proper angle of the foot is destroyed, as is usually done by improper shoeing, such as having high toes and low heels, or when a horse heels cause a constant leaning forward on the knees to the detriment of the animal's health.

Russell, the authority for the foregoing, in his work on scientific horse shoeing, advises, in directing for this disease, to pare the foot level and lower it to its proper angle. The shoe should be narrow in the web and as light as can be safely worn, being also well concaved on the ground surface and adjusted as far back at the heel as the safety of the foot may seem to require. A style of the second foot shoe or the second foot shoe motion shoe should be used; though, if too and heel calluses are necessary, use the four calkin shoe. Either of these patterns, by shortening the ground surface at the toe and strengthening the knee when the horse is moving forward, will relieve the strain and enable him to better to pass his feet over uneven ground surface, which is sometimes the cause of twisting and straining the knee. It is also advised to use a shoe with a furthering a curb to feed the horse from the ground. This will have the effect of throwing the animal's weight more directly over his hump, and thus assist nature, in a manner, to strengthen the engagement in the knee ligaments.

Sowing Grass Seed in the Spring. If spring sowing is to be done make the necessary arrangements in advance, so that the seedling can be done early. If grass and clover seed are to be sown together sow the grass seed a week or ten days before sowing the clover. Use plenty of seed, for one of the essential items in securing the most profitable crop with grass is to have a good, even stand, and to secure this it is necessary to use plenty of seed.

When sowing for meadow it is best to keep each variety of grass separate. With the exception of orchard grass and clover no two varieties of grass ripen at the same time, and if one is cut at the right stage the other will be a little too ripe or too ripe. Orchard grass and clover ripen together, and can be sown together to an advantage, the orchard grass helping in many cases to prevent the clover from lodging. Orchard grass, clover, timothy and redtop stand first as the principal grasses sown for hay, and they should be the foundation grasses for all meadows or grass fields.

One of the best times to sow grass or clover seed is when the soil is thawing and freezing alternately night and day. Timothy or reedtop, and sometimes clover, is sown on winter wheat. Others prefer to sow oats and then sow clover, but the objection to this plan is that when the crop is harvested it leaves the grass plants exposed to the hot rays of the sun, and as it is often the case that there is more or less drought at this time, the plants are either seriously injured or entirely killed out.—American Cultivator.

Separators and the Honey Market. The influence of separators on the honey market was a subject for consideration in a recent issue of The Beekeeper's Review.

J. A. Green, of Dayton, Ill., approved of separators, and uses them in the shipping cases as well as in the supers. He contended that with separators honey reaches the market in more attractive condition, is easier to handle and to sell than is that made without them. He prefers the tin separators.

Dr. C. C. Miller advised the use of separators wherever one wants their comb honey to be packed for shipment in some receptacle other than the one that was on the hive. He said, "If loose separators are to be used, give preference to wood; if fixed, tin." R. L. Taylor, of Lapeer, Mich., said that separators do not lessen the yield of honey, but they are an expense from which there are no cash returns. He summed up the whole matter as follows: For profit alone use no separators; if straighter combs are desired use the separator; if the yield and the taste are to be gratified at the expense of financial profit use single-wide frames with separators.

Poultry Notes. The Poultry World says: Do not attempt under any circumstances to keep 600, or even 500, adult fowls in one flock. Broods of half grown chickens may be united in the fall there are 600, when there is an unlimited range, but grown fowls never. In no yard there ought not to be kept more than from twenty to fifty hens, even if the yard is large.

In raising poultry for profit you must first consider the surrounding circumstances, the amount of capital to invest, the space of ground to be occupied and the amount of help available.

American Agriculturist tells that elaborate milk is a very nutritious article of food for hens and growing pullets. It is usually fed with bran, well mixed together.

Interesting Silk Statistics. A recent estimate places the production of silk throughout the world last year at 11,700 tons, against 11,548 tons in 1898, 11,683 tons in 1897, 10,504 tons in 1896 and 9,003 tons in 1895. The average of the four years from 1895 to 1898 was 10,743 tons. The 1899 crop was rather above it, although scarcely any silk was produced in Syria and other parts of the Levant.

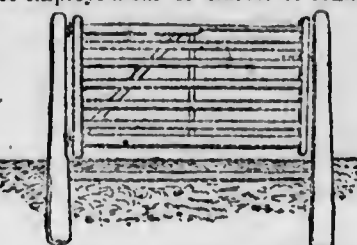

FARM AND GARDEN.

SUBJECTS OF GENERAL INTEREST TO AMERICAN AGRICULTURISTS.

Various Modes Proposed for the Prevention of Sucking in Farm Gates. Methods Suggested for Securing Gate Posts from Displacement.

A very common trouble with farm gates is caused by continued pressure exerted against the post by the weight of the gate, producing sagging. The gate then rots on the ground at its latch end, and is dragged over the surface on opening and shutting. Under this rough treatment they soon wear out. It becomes important, therefore, to secure the post from this displacement. Various modes have been resorted to. Country Gentlemen call attention to the following: Very large posts a foot in diameter are used by some, and setting them four or five feet deep is adopted by others.

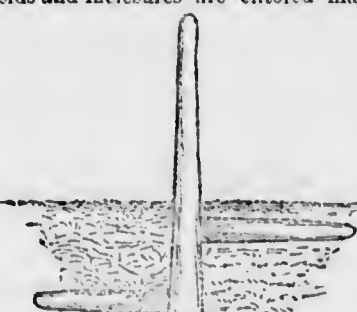

The mode represented in the first figure employs a bar of timber to connect

OATS THAT WILL NOT SAG. The two posts, thereby lessening the liability to sag; the timber being buried half a foot or more beneath the hard beaten surface is excluded from the air and does not decay for many years.

An even more certain arrangement is shown in the second figure, where two pieces of timber are buried in such a position that the post cannot be moved out of place without pushing these timber lengths through the soil. If the earth has been beaten around them no force that can be brought to bear can move them endwise through the soil, and they will operate many times more efficiently in holding the posts from sagging to the right than the stones placed sidewise, large stones, or sticks of timber with the middle placed against the post.

Gates are very properly classed with labor saving implements and machinery by the authority quoted. Some of the fields and inclosures are entered many times a day. Some entrances on every farm are passed several times a day during most of the year, and with little labor if good self shutting and self locking gates are provided. If only ten times a day, and for a hundred days, there would be a thousand passages to be made.

Helpful Hints Concerning Hops. P. H. Jacobs, of Hammond, N. J., gives the following helpful hints in American Rural Home on the disease which it first makes its appearance, and to prevent its spread the sick birds should be removed from the others. The premises should be thoroughly disinfected, and the hops freshly scattered over the yard, and the houses well sprinkled with a solution of a tablespoonful of carbolic acid in a pailful of water.

It has been demonstrated that the virus of roup can be destroyed by quicklime and by spirits of turpentine. When whitewashing it would be well to add a teaspoonful of spirits of turpentine to the whitewash.

The drinking vessels should be kept scrupulously clean, and the water changed twice a day. In each case a teaspoonful of turpentine being added to each gallon of water. With these precautions the hops may be kept away.

The hops may be treated by dipping the drinking vessels in the turpentine water, though if only one or two valuable birds are sick they may be treated by hand. All fowls will drink, even when they are diseased.

Some fowls are more subject to roup than others. Birds with crests, which become water soaked in wet weather, and birds with very tall combs, which become frosted, are liable to roup when they are exposed.

Horses with short poll-legged horses possess qualities which render them more valuable for general use than many of the highly bred ones. Alfred S. (216), bought by Mr. Deane for $8,000 a few months since, is one of that sort. He was by Elmo, and Elmo was by Mohawk, son of Long Tail Black Hawk. The breeding of the dam of Alfred S. is unknown. Elmo, sire of Alfred S., was from a mare of unknown breeding, and the same is true of Mohawk, sire of Elmo. Mr. Deane possesses Alfred S. a perfect roan, and as he is a heeler that he has not made a brood horse since becoming his property, although during that time he has pulled his owner a mile to wagon on Fleetwood track in 1921, and driven a driver weighing 275 pounds. There is but little doubt that if he were specially fitted for the effort, Alfred S. could beat the wagon record (216).

Horses like Alfred S., though not standard bred, will always make their mark and bring good prices. One thing is sure, they can never be produced from cold blooded cart horse stock, says Horse Breeder.

The Old Yellow Pumpkin. How does this heart shaped yellow pumpkin, when peeled and applied to the face, and the face of a person who has been suffering from the fruit of the cucumber?

The fruit that our children are taught to do.

The old yellow pumpkin, the most common pumpkin, the heart shaped pumpkin that makes such good pie!

Oh, golden heart pumpkin, you surely are "thin." You yield much more, as you are, but we eat you up before you are through growing.

When from your dear presence we countenanced come rolling down hill, till we meet you and greet you.

Your bulk is a feast to our fruit hungry eyes. We love you, old pumpkin, as well we could eat you.

For you are a "lucky" when made into pie.

Warning Water for Cows. At one of the New York farmers' institutes the question was asked, "What is the cheapest way to warm water for cows?" Col. Curtis, of Saratoga county, replied, "If the trough or tank is out of doors a sheet iron stove can be put into it with the pipe leading up through the water, and the door opening outward at the end of the trough. The pipe and the door can be covered in water tight. An amount of wood put into this stove will warm a large quantity of water." George T. Powell said, "If the water is kept in a tank under cover, a small lamp set in a tin can will warm the water or keep it from being chilly."

He Did Not Call.

The man who tried Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and was cured of the $500 reward offered by the proprietors for an incurable case, never called for his money. Why not? O, because he got cured. He was sure of two things. (1) That his catarrh could not be cured. (2) That he would have that $500. He is now sure of one thing that is, that his catarrh is completely gone. So he is out $500 of course. The makers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy have faith in their ability to cure the worst cases of Nasal Catarrh, no matter of how long standing, and attest their faith by their standing reward of $500, offered for many years past, for an incurable case of this catarrh and dangerous disease. The Remedy is sold by druggists, at only 50 cents. Mild; soothing, cleansing, deodorizing, antiseptic, and healing.
